

Berit Susan Sievers

I love nature and animals, I love the Alps and I love to follow my intuition when working with clients. I choose my methods based on what is sensible and effective at that moment. I always try to work on the essential and gently reach the true core of an assignment so that further development and growth become possible. And it is allowed to be enjoyable as well.

I live outside Munich and am fluent in German and English and have worked in global organisations for over 25 years.

What people say about working with Berit

"I experienced Berit as refreshingly different from the typical representation of trainers and consultants. She is curious and responsive, creative and goal-oriented, attentive and objective. No session without a result, no topic without closure. This is how I imagine consulting today."

"Berit is a very inspiring personality who manages to motivate people to rethink and reconsider things using a variety of methods, including creative ones, to adopt other perspectives, and to take new and sometimes unusual or unconventional paths. She is a very open, warm, positive-thinking, and humorous person, with whom one enjoys working and quickly builds trust. I have also experienced Berit as a very good facilitator in team collaborations, capable of guiding and aligning different and sometimes challenging personalities."
