

Pippa Shepherd

Pippa's journey began with formal actor training where she mastered the art of voice control, posture, audience engagement and being able to project confidence, no matter what was happening in the background. Many years of stage, TV and live presenting work honed her presentation skills, ability to think on her feet, and maintain composure even when things sometimes went awry!

Recognising the value of these skills, she embarked on a parallel career, using her expertise to coach managers and leaders in the corporate world. Pippa understands that many managers and leaders are thrust into high-stakes situations without adequate training. She finds that basic presenting skills can be transformative for them, creating real successes and finding that their worst fear could be something they actually found enjoyable.

Alongside her one-to-one work, Pippa also runs a successful company - CentreStage Partnership Ltd - placing trained actors/behavioural coaches into businesses to support management and leadership training in many areas such as 'challenging conversations', 'delivering feedback' and 'getting the most from your Personal Development Review'.

Pippa's specialist areas

- Confidence and self esteem
- Personal impact and professional presence
- Courageous conversations
- Conflict and feedback

What someone has said about working with Pippa

"Pippa has always been able to turn role-plays into something real and have helped facilitate huge light bulb moments of learning for my delegates! Pippa is flexible, agile and energetic who is always a pleasure to work with"

Pippa's LinkedIn Profile

